AFTER SERVICE IS RESTORED Crews will flush hydrants on the mains that had been shut down.

- You may experience brief periods of lower-than-normal pressure as the crew flushes the lines near your residence.
- The flushing may cause temporary discoloration of the water; however it will not present any health hazards or cause harm to your system. Even though these solids are harmless they may cause staining. See the suggestions below.

SUGGESTIONS

- If your water turns brown, flush your own system by running cold water through your bathtub or an outdoor spigot until the water runs clear.
- Be sure the water in your washing machine runs clear before doing your laundry in order to mitigate the remote possibility of damage to laundry items.
